"Blood," acclaimed political thriller starring Glenna Headly returns to The Complex, 6476 Santa Monica Blvd., Hollywood, CA 90038. Fris and Sats 8p; Suns 3p, Oct. 14 - Dec. 18. $35; students with valid ID $25. An American reporter in Japan uncovers a conspiracy to cover up the government-sanctioned sale of HIV-contaminated blood products in a new political thriller with music inspired by true events. In the early 1980s, nearly 2,000 people, most of them hemophiliacs, died of AIDS after U.S. companies knowingly sold contaminated blood to Japan, where pharmaceutical companies continued to distribute non-heat-treated blood products despite the existence of heat treatments proven to prevent the spread of infection. Ackerman has blended fact and fiction to dramatize real events and added music to create a highly theatrical and stylized production. Tickets: (323) 960-7745 or go to www.plays411.com/blood.
